

Moments of Beauty

Week 1—Beauty in Work

Wednesday, September 9

“Angelus” by Jean François Millet (1857)

This painting shows the hard work of the field. This man and woman have stopped for a moment to pray. In the distance you can see the church whose bell tower is chiming the hour of prayer.

“Blessed are all who fear the Lord, who walk in his ways. You will eat the fruit of your labor, blessings and prosperity will be yours.” Psalm 128:1-2

What details do you see in the painting that remind you of the intensity of work? What do you see that represents the beauty of work? What will you pray in the middle of your workday today?

May you recognize the beauty of work today.